When I was growing up, visiting my grandma or her visiting us in Philly was always a major event. Every time I saw her I was full of excitement because I loved her so much. I remember her as a lively, funny woman who I know loved me. She had a short temper, but I could always make her laugh even if she was upset! I wish I could've seen her more recently, and I especially wish she could've met my daughter. But I thank God for memories that I have of her (and her out of this world food!).Love you so much grandma, aloha til I see you again!
