To My Beloved Sister Terry, Even though we were apart you sought me out, you have always been inquisitive about your Family and the Lord. Both have brought you a sense of purpose and eternal happiness. Although I will miss you and our sibling conversations, you always reminded me that you were my elder and I was to listen to my older sister, then I would remind you that I'm your brother and that it's not age but wisdom. Then you would laugh, (How I will miss your laugh) indicating that you were right. I am comforted that you are no longer in pain and appreciative of the gift that you included me in this wonderful extended family for which I'm eternally grateful. Your legacy will always be this wonderful and loving family that you and Troy mentored during your time with them. I pray that they feel your presence and memories when they need it most to help them navigate their own lives as they continue to build their own families and seek advice. They will continue the service to the Lord that you started, as they share the Gospel with those willing to accept his teaching, and for those that aren't ready, they show the grace and compassion that you have instilled in all of them. I'm assured by the scriptures that the Lord has embraced you, and removed your earthly pain, as you ascend into heaven, we will always remember you fondly and you will always be in my heart. I won't say goodbye, as we will be together as a family once again in the house of the Lord. I love you and miss you always. Your Brother, Steve Cox

1Thessalonians 5:11 tells us to, "Therefore encourage one another and build one another up." A godly friend speaks truth into your life, even when it is difficult to hear. A true friend loves you and genuinely wants the best for you. They will tell you both the good and the bad. She will tell you when she feels that you are walking away from the Lord or if she feels that you have been walking closer with God. She will speak God's Truth into your life daily. Gosh I miss you but I rejoice that you have received your crown. Your buddy me 🙏

Terry, You were the one that I always looked up to. For answers, of questions, that you always had. I have in my heart the joy of being together through all the Thanksgivings & Christmases we shared. Never forgetting our birthdays. You held my hand teaching me to cross the street. I remember you teaching me everything. You were always a part of my life, you are my Angel Sister, and will always be loved so much. Thank you for all your love. I will hold your hand again. Your Sister, Darlene

Iâ€™ve known Terry since elementary school. We reconnected last year after the holidays, and she recalled a school pic from Iliahi where I was standing right behind her. She told me: â€œThe oddest thing is that I remember feeling â€˜maternally comfortableâ€™ with that. I cannot explain it.â€ We never really know how we touch each others lives, just as she did that day when she simply shared this with me. Rest in aloha, sweet angel. ðŸ™
