I look back at her life and I see that she came a long way and accomplished many things. Â Much of her earlier life was finding her way and learning the lessons needed to understand how to make her life successful.Â Â

Mom wasn't given many things on the front end of her own life. Â She had to learn and earn on her own many lessons and figure out what was right and what would work for her. Â In the end, we benefited from her efforts and what she learned. Â She made her own life better and that made our lives better.
