I love and miss you more every day. Its been getting harder to cope with each passing day. I fear the worst for myself at times but I am remaining strong holding onto your memory as each day passes. Its been a year already I cant believe it. Not much has happened since a year ago. I didn't celebrate your birthday as I had planned. I just couldn't do it. I did stop drinking and I recently started my brand back up. Not sure ill ever finish it but I continue to work on it each day. Im in the mainland now and I really hate it here. people are so rude and Aloha is not appreciated. Miss the warm weather. They tell me summers here are nice but ive yet to believe that. Its just been cold and rainy and the days seem to linger on forever. Probably due to the fact I find myself hiding every chance I get because I start randomly crying. I stayed with my sisters family over the holiday and that was kind of nice. We use to be so close so it was good to become close again. Anyways Im sorry I rambled on and im sure we will talk again. I just needed to write you a message on your tribute wall. Not a day passes that I dont think about Kalihi and our housing. Miss you more than ever. I love you my queen. Watch over Ekahi.Â

Aloha Kayleen. I am sorry the way things are turning out. I know you must be rolling in your grave. I love you and miss you so much. I cannot sleep at night and nightmares seem to keep me up. I want this dream to be over so I can wake up and kiss you good morning. I am in a very dark place and canâ€™t seem to grasp onto the light. Please know what ever choices I make it life it needed to be done. I canâ€™t stand being alive as I feel like each passing second I am only dying. I pray every chance I get but I cannot seem to forgive myself for the things I did. Love you with all my soul.

Dear Sister, I'm the one who was blessed to have known you. I still can't believe you're in Heaven. You were such a beautiful soul with an amazing voice. I still hear your voice and the stories you've told me. Rest In Peace Love Denise.
