She was my 3rd grade teacher and knew me ever since and now I am in 7th grade i barely even see her. And when my sister told me the sad news I literally broke down in tears and I still can't believe that she was still fighting for cancer. I really miss her cause she was a teacher, a school mom, a friend and a lover to all of her students and I really wished that I could go back to when I was in 3rd grade and spend even more time with you or even better i wish i could go back to before when you had cancer and help you prevent having cancer. I really want to see your face one more time so every time i think of you all i have to do is look at your face. I still pray for you and I always will no matter what people think do or say about it I will always pray.
